State Deputy Treasurer to Take Finance Position in Apex

Apex, NC – The new guy in Apex knows a thing or two about numbers. Beginning January 20th, State Deputy Treasurer Vance Holloman will join the town staff as Finance Director.

“We are very fortunate to have recruited a Finance Director of Vance’s caliber,” stated Apex Town Manager Bruce Radford. “His vast experience, knowledge and abilities are widely recognized across North Carolina and the United States. He is a great addition to our professional team.”

A majority of Holloman’s career has been spent with the Local Government Commission (LGC), a division of the State Treasurer’s office. The LGC approves and issues all debt, administers the repayment of debt, and oversees the financial condition of local governments.

Holloman is a graduate of UNC-Chapel Hill, completed his MPA at NC State University, and is a Certified Public Accountant. In 2014, he was presented with the Distinguished Alumnus Award by the North Carolina State University School of Public and International Affairs.

“The Town of Apex is a well-managed and financially strong municipality. I look forward to working for such a fine community,” said Holloman.
